

The Warblington Cist

During the 2014 excavation, in a room at the eastern end of the masonry building (2), we discovered...

... a broken burial urn within the building (almost certainly that of a small child)...

...and below ground level, a stone cist

Burial urn found here

High quality flint wall foundations

When excavated, this stone is seen to be a cist

Robbed wall foundations leave a clear mark

